Find a Career... or a team member!

From the perspective of green profession business owners, finding employees is a critical challenge. Canada's educators play a key role, and support horticultural education at all levels. Green Careers provides access to the tools to get you started in an exciting new career in landscaping and horticulture.

Multidiscipline Careers

From the science of soils and hydrology in the engineering realm, through the direct links of horticulture with plant production from growth and maintenance to food production we see the direct connections to green professions. But if we look deeper into almost any project being created today, we see so many other options to find a niche career in the green profession.

Make the World a Greener Place!

Protect and preserve our urban green spaces - it's a critical part of urban living. Let's not pave our urban playground, but create a paradise of living green spaces, full of colour that provide long-term environmental, economic and lifestyle benefits!

Come Grow With Us... Opportunity is Everywhere!

There are plenty of career opportunities in the field of horticulture. Landscape professionals have worked closely with the Ministry of Advanced Education and Skills Development (MAESD), to provide education at the high school, college and university levels that give individuals the skills they need for a successful green career.
